The Blind Voters Bill

THE Blind Voters Bill, to which several references have already been made in the REVIEW, was read for the third time in the House of Commons, on the motion of Captain Fraser, on 27th April. It will soon be introduced into the House of Lords by Lord Blanesburgh, Chairman of the Ministry of Health's Advisory Committee on the Welfare of the Blind.

This Bill seeks, in brief, to amend the Ballot Act so as to enable a blind person, if he so wishes, to take a member of his family or a friend to mark his ballot paper for him instead of, as at present, being compelled to disclose his vote to officials in the polling booth.

Cavalry Memorial Service

OUR President, Lady (Arthur) Pearson, D.B.E., was present at the Cavalry Memorial Service in Hyde Park on Sunday, 30th April, and was extremely pleased to meet there the Rev. Harold Gibb and Mrs. Gibb. As our readers will remember, Mr. Gibb, who was wounded when with the Dragoon Guards in 1915 and admitted to St. Dunstan's two years later, lives at Sherborne in Warwick, and has delivered the address at the Cavalry Memorial Service on several occasions.

He delivered it once again this year and Lady Pearson was very much impressed by its moving nature and excellence. She also declared that the speaker "looked splendid."

Mr. Gibb was appointed Chaplain to the Warwickshire Regt. in May, 1919.

A Fine Tribute

IN a report presented to the Executive Council by Dr. Gemmell, Medical Officer at Brighton, he incidentally takes the opportunity of remarking upon one of our men who died during the past year. We are happy to reprint Dr. Gemmell's comment, and are sure that all St. Dunstaners will appreciate this expression of his feeling with regard to one of their comrades.

"I mention with great regret the death of Charles Hudson, for many years working as a masseur in this town. Hudson always seemed to me to carry out, as fully as any I know, the precepts of Sir Arthur Pearson. He was a first-class man at his work and he never let his blindness handicap him; to see him walking about the town by himself was a proof of what a St. Dunstan's man can do."

St. Dunstan's and the Cup Final

ST. DUNSTAN'S was represented at the Cup Final between Everton and Manchester City by R. H. Cook, of Wallasey, who acts as masseur to the members of the Everton Club.

A special article appeared in the Sunday Chronicle, which also published a photograph of Cook massaging Stein, the Everton forward.

St. Dunstan's Singers

WE hear from Miss McCall that there is a vacancy in the St. Dunstan's Singers for a bass. Unfortunately A. Osmond has had to resign through ill-health, and this is a great loss to the Singers, as Osmond has been a member since the choir first started ten years ago.

If any St. Dunstaner in London, who is a bass and thinks he might care to join, will get in touch with Miss McCall, 65 Cannon Hill, N.W.6 (Tel. Hampstead 4084), she would give him all details and make an appointment to try his voice. The St. Dunstan's Singers give concerts all through the winter, and pool any fees, so that expenses are guaranteed to all concerts.

Holiday Camps

AS previously announced, Stratford-on-Avon Holiday Camp will be held this year from Monday, 26th June, to Tuesday, 4th July. Entries should be sent not later than 9th June to Miss A. Hodgson, 4 Canonbury Place, London, N.1.

Miss Talbot's Camp will be held this year from 2nd to 9th June, at Bolwick Hall, Aylesham, Norfolk. This is twelve miles from Cromer and twelve from Norwich. As it is urgent that numbers should be known as soon as possible, it will be a great help if those thinking of coming will write at once to Miss Talbot at Little Gaddesden House, Berkhamstead, saying they hope to do so.

A Wireless Entertainer

From the Irish Independent, 28 April, 1933:

Dan McLoughlin (of Dublin), the blind musician and entertainer, was at the microphone during the children's hour at the Athlone Station yesterday. His programme took a novel form, consisting of tricks, which he asked the children to follow with him, and songs and choruses.

Can You Guess?

It has been suggested by a correspondent that from time to time a problem might appear in the "Review" for solution by readers.

The following one is called "The Duchess and her Diamond." The correct solution will be given next month.

There is NO prize.

THE DUCHESS OF OXBRIDGE was receiving the guests at the Charity Fancy Dress Ball in the Town Hall at Oxbridge. She was also wearing her famous Lodore Diamond valued at untold thousands. Many thieves had sworn to get that diamond, but the Duchess was no fool and half the people in fancy dress seemed to be detectives, while a very strong force of police was on duty all round the building.

It was a warm evening and the great window, in front of which the Duchess was established, was open wide. Very graciously indeed she shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Barnett, the young and good-looking couple she had met first a week or so before. She might not have been so gracious, if she had known that they were very clever crooks indeed.

Mr. Barnett was dressed as Mephistopheles. Mrs. Barnett was Little Red Riding Hood, complete with her little basket of wicker with a wicker lid.

Mr. Barnett slipped out, while his wife stood by the duchess.

Suddenly all the lights went out, and, by the time the main switch had been turned on again, Mr. Barnett, who had turned it off, was back in the hall mingling with the startled guests. They were more startled still when the Duchess screamed out that her diamond had been stolen.

The doors were locked at once and the place surrounded. Every guest, male and female, was searched to the skin. They even searched Little Red Riding Hood's little basket, but found nothing in it. All the ground outside the windows was searched, but there was nothing to be found. Not even a hair could have remained undiscovered after such a search—let alone the Duchess's diamond!

How was it stolen?

A Change of Address

WILL all St. Dunstaners in his area please make a note that Mr. J. Sherratt (Basket Instructor) has moved to 54 Eastfield Road, Wellingborough.

Our Post-Bag

SAY IT WITH MUSIC.

To the Editor:

DEAR SIR,—The fact of being deaf is no criterion in judging music, for Beethoven became deaf towards the latter end of his career and continued to compose, but to one unacquainted with the technique of music, there is no foundation whatever for criticism.

Perhaps Fallowfield has not studied the history of music from the time of the Elizabethan madrigals to the works of Elgar and Delius or had the opportunity of listening to a Caruso record.

Never let it be thought for one moment that I am one of the so-called "high-brows," but, on the contrary, if one cannot differentiate between the good music of the past and the present-day barbarities inflicted by dance bands and certain "artists" with their "do-di-o-do," then they must be non compos mentis.

With regard to unemployment in the music profession, I should like to know what has become of the musicians who lived before the advent of wireless and the talkies? How many musicians have been absorbed into the studios of the B.B.C. and Elstree?

The B.B.C. have 214 instrumentalists in their various orchestras, excluding the new Western Regional station, then there is the Hallé, London Symphony, Philharmonic and hundreds of others scattered all over the country, not forgetting military and brass bands.

In conclusion, perhaps Fallowfield would formulate a table giving the number of hours occupied by the playing of gramophone records as compared with the rest of the programmes, and last but not least, locality must be considered for I live in the heart of the Surrey Hills, where, for my own delight and pleasure, wireless keeps me in touch with music.—Yours sincerely,

W. A. MUGGERIDGE.

Gt. Bookham.

FRIENDS of J. Stibbles, of Pitlochry, who have been wondering why they have not heard from him lately will regret to hear that he has been in a nursing home for some time. As the result of an accident, which happened in the bathroom, Stibbles' leg was very severely cut by earthenware which embedded itself in the leg and shattered the bone.

Stibbles is very bright and cheerful about it all, but his leg will hamper him for some time to come.

Reunion Meetings

Hastings, April 12th : Bournemouth
April 21st

SUNSHINE has cheered us all very much in April this year, and our meetings at these seaside resorts were generously treated. The usual cheery faces of St. Dunstaners had a little extra in the way of smiles on these days. The tables were bright with flowers, which were the gift of Miss Allcard, of Horsham, and after the meeting the men who had no gardens took home bunches.

Sunshine and flowers are typical of the south country, and the men, their wives and children, brought with them the atmosphere of their country homes. Brightness and happy prosperity were the outstanding impressions left in my mind after these gatherings. During the course of the meeting Newman, in a little speech, thanked the generous British public, who continue to make the work of St. Dunstan's possible, and went on to express particular appreciation of the courtesy which St. Dunstaners individually always received from policemen, tram conductors, and other public officials. His sentiments were loudly applauded by the meeting.

After-care Meeting at Southsea

(From a Correspondent.)

THE After-care Meeting at Southsea on Wednesday, 25th April, was very well attended, and nearly 150 St. Dunstaners, their wives and children, and guests sat down to tea. Mr. Ottaway had charge of the meeting and, during tea, Captain and Mrs. Fraser appeared. Captain Fraser was in the middle of a particularly busy day, for he had just come down from London and was going on to Southampton to speak at a Conservative Women's Rally in the evening. Nevertheless, he found time to greet individual guests and to make a most engrossing speech.

Another interesting personality at the meeting was Engineer Rear-Admiral H. Bone, C.B., of the Portsmouth Branch of the British Legion, and it was particularly appropriate that he should be there, because, during the course of the afternoon,

Captain Fraser paid a deserved tribute to the amicable relations between St. Dunstan's and the British Legion and urged all blinded ex-servicemen who had not yet joined the Legion to do so. Admiral Bone acknowledged Captain Fraser's praise in a tactful little speech of thanks.

The remainder of Captain Fraser's speech was devoted to a comprehensive explanation of the policy of St. Dunstan's and was punctuated with bursts of appreciative applause from the listening St. Dunstaners. He and Mrs. Fraser had to leave a little before the end of the meeting, in order to be at Southampton in time, and Mr. Ottaway was left to carry on his by no means light task of having a chat with every one of the men. It was, of course, his first After-care Meeting at Southsea, and his admirable handling of so large a gathering was much appreciated.

During the afternoon, mention was also made of the warm memories left in the hearts of local St. Dunstaners by Mr. Swain, who had been in charge of so many meetings there before being promoted to his present position of Appeals Organizer. Speeches finished, the company turned to games and music, and nothing could be heard but the hearty laughter of the men and the delighted squeals and romping of the many children who had been brought.

Altogether, it was a most striking meeting!

A Visit to Canterbury

(By a St. Dunstaner.)

IT was my first visit to Canterbury and, on entering the town by the beautiful fourteenth century West Gate, I immediately fell under its spell: workaday modern life slipped away and once again the streets were peopled by pilgrims, kings, nobles and peasants, rich and poor alike, all wending their way to the shrine of the Martyr with their offerings of precious jewels, gold and silver ornaments, hoping for a benediction or indulgence. Here is the St. Thomas's Hospital for Poor Brethren, erected in 1180 to house and feed for one night only the poorer of the pilgrims. On this very spot it may be that Chaucer found some of the material for his Canterbury Tales.

In the refectory of the hospital is a beautiful minstrels' gallery, and octagonal table where the brethren sat to partake of the refreshment offered by the hospital. In those days no seating accommodation was provided for the worshippers in the small chapel, but built in the angles of the walls were stone seats where the aged and sick might seat themselves, hence the expression "The weakest go to the wall."

Farther down the street is the house in which Queen Elizabeth gave audiences during her visits to the town. In another street stands the church where Christopher Marlowe, the dramatist and poet, was baptized, who—though murdered in a drunken brawl before the age of thirty—left his mark on English literature and ranked almost as great as Shakespeare. One could go on indefinitely telling of the places of historical interest, but, like the ancient pilgrims, the Cathedral drew me on.

What scenes, religious and political, have been enacted within this noble structure which pays such tribute to the skill and perseverance of the mediæval architect and builder! I stood on the spot where the Archbishop, Thomas à Becket, tall and powerful, faced his murderers and hurled de Tracy to the ground before de Broc felled him with a blow from his sword, and I thought of the farce enacted by Henry VIII, who, after the Archbishop had been dead for more than two hundred years, charged him with high treason and, finding him guilty when he did not appear in person to defend the charge, ordered his remains to be dug up, burnt and scattered to the winds; confiscating and appropriating the treasures of the gem-studded shrine, reputed by modern valuers at £3,000,000.

What boy has not felt a thrill when reading in his history book of the deeds of valour performed by Edward the Black Prince, the darling of England? Here he is buried in a splendid tomb built by his adoring countrymen, while his surcoat, gauntlets and helm which hang over his tomb, recall the age of chivalry. In St. Thomas's Corona is the chair of St. Augustine, whereon were crowned the Kings of Kent and used for the enthronement of the Primates of England even to our own day.

One cannot pass on without mentioning the glorious colouring of the thirteenth century windows, the blue of which our modern artists have found it impossible to reproduce.

As I left the Cathedral a sickening thought struck my mind: Supposing the invader came with his engines of destruction? But I prefer to remember it as I left it, bathed in the sunshine of a perfect April day, calm and peaceful, bearing witness to the simple faith of those monks of old who built alone for the love and the glory of God.

SPORTS CLUB NOTES

Sports Meeting

THE annual sports meeting to decide upon the Summer Sports was held at Headquarters on Tuesday, 25th April, when the Sports Captain presided over a very satisfactory attendance. The results of the winter sports were first announced and the winners congratulated.

The Chairman stated that the M.C.C. had again most generously granted some passes for the county matches at Lords. Each pass admits a St. Dunstaner and escort, and application must be made to Corpl.-Major Tovell. It was also decided to write a letter of gratitude and goodwill to Mr. Calderhead, the retiring Manager of the Chelsea F.C., for all the many kindnesses he has granted us, and also a welcome to an old friend of St. Dunstan's, Mr. Leslie Knighton, who is succeeding Mr. Calderhead as Manager. We feel sure that Mr. Knighton will continue to grant us facilities for attending the League Matches.

(1) Summer Sports. It was decided to adhere to the usual sports programme, and to include kicking at goal when time permits. Also to start punctually at 7 o'clock each Tuesday evening. The handicaps will also remain as heretofore. We hope that our numbers will be increased during the summer months, and that some of the men who have not already taken part will come along.

(2) General Sports Day. This will take place on Saturday, 24th June. The London team will be selected in the usual way, and we would wish that all men who desire to represent London will come up to the meetings each Tuesday, and show what they can do.

(3) Regatta. The Regatta will take place on Wednesday, 12th July, and again the usual programme will be attempted. This year the representative four to row against the Visitors will be decided by a row-off meeting on the Monday preceding the Regatta at Barnes. The winning four will only compete against the Visitors, the remaining fours will take part in the usual fours event. The races for the Merit Cup will take place on the lake on Tuesday,

4th July, and the crews chosen by ballot. Will rowing men please note that tickets must be obtained for training on the lake. These can be obtained upon application from Miss Woolrych.

(4) Swimming. Classes will be continued, and it is expected that the nights will be Wednesday and Friday, at 5.45. We hope that the men will take full advantage of this excellent opportunity of making progress in swimming. We hope that the Gala will take place towards the close of the year.

If was further decided to see if a Whist Drive could be arranged after certain sports nights, and it was decided to make an experiment on the first Tuesday in the month. It will depend upon the support and the time available, as to whether we will be able to carry this on.

The meeting closed with a very kindly and generously worded vote of thanks to Captain Williams for presiding. We were sorry not to have Captain Fraser with us: he intended being present, but was detained, it being Budget day.

A Correction

WE regret that in the report of the Birmingham Walk in last month's REVIEW a mistake was made in the name of the seventh man home and the winner of the handicap. This should have read R. J. Williams in both cases.

BIRMINGHAM.

THE first Meeting of the summer season was held on the Alexander Ground, Perry Barr, on 19th April. A heavy snow shower during the first events prevented the breaking of any records! The party took refuge in the Pavilion for the skittles competition, but were able to finish the outdoor events later in brilliant sunshine. After tea the members played dominoes and pontoon.

A. HODGSON.

BRIGHTON SPORTS MEETING
28th APRIL

THE sports ground, which we had hoped to be able to use on Friday, had unfortunately changed hands, and it was impossible to gain the necessary permission until after Easter. Matron kindly suggested the ground near the workshop at the Annexe for goal kicking, jumping, and putting the weight, and the deserted sands for throwing the cricket ball, and football. As will be seen by the following results this was a great success, and competition was keen. We had 20 actual performers, whilst Bullock and H. B. Read were also present, but unfortunately unable to compete. We hope to see them on top during indoor competitions later on.

POINTS.—T.B. 1. Wass, 90; 2. Dickinson, Scott, 85; 4. Ashe, 65; 5. Anderson, G., Jacklin, Newman, Taylor, 25. S.S. 1. Martin, 100; 2. Pike, 75; 3. Smith, 70; 4. Triggs, 45; 5. Freeman, 40; 6. Clewlow, Gannaway, 35; 8. Anderson, W., Higgins, Steel, Varley, Williams, 25.

GOAL KICKING.—Kemp Town 1, Wass's Team 1. After a kick-off between the respective Captains, Dickinson of Kemp Town made 1 to win.

After sports Miss Hodgson's culinary efforts were greatly appreciated, and the Inter-Club Sports Challenge Cup was suitably placed in the centre of the table. As soon as I hear about the sports ground I will notify members so that Friday practices commence. The next official competitions will be on Friday, 26th May. Any member wishing to go in for swimming is asked to be at the Netting-Room at 3 p.m. on that date, when Miss Hodgson and Mr. Hardy will accompany them to the baths.

G. J. STACEY.

MANCHESTER.

THE Manchester Club was indeed fortunate in the weather for the opening Sports Meeting of the season, which was held at the Y.M.C.A. Sports Ground, Alexandra Park, on Wednesday, 10th April.

The meeting was well attended and there was keen competition in all events.

Annual Long Distance Walk

22nd April, 1933

OUR annual Long Distance Walk took place this year at North Wembley by the courtesy and help of the Natappro Sports Club, and was over a distance of 15 miles.

The officials of the Club gave us every assistance and the race proved a great success.

Captain Ian Fraser started the competitors in the presence of a large crowd.

In the S.S. section Archie Brown scored his seventh successive win, while H. Boorman walked a splendid race in defeating H. Kerr in the T.B. class.

Colonel R. E. Bickerton, D.S.O., M.B., kindly presented the prizes after the race.
