

ST. DUNSTAN'S REVIEW

For Blinded British Soldiers, Sailors and Airmen

No. 199.—VOLUME XIX. [NEW SERIES]

JULY, 1934

PRICE 6d. MONTHLY.
[FREE TO ST. DUNSTAN'S MEN.]

Chairman's Notes

I HAVE done my very best, and think I have succeeded in thanking all my St. Dunstan's friends personally for their messages, telegrams and letters. If I have neglected to answer any message, St. Dunstaners will, I am sure, realize that this was owing to the very large number that were sent to me.

I should like now to express my very great appreciation of the kindness that has been shown me by St. Dunstaners and friends of St. Dunstan's all over the world.

My wife and I are the fortunate ones who receive the honour by the gracious act of His Majesty The King, but it is in the truest sense a compliment to and an honour for St. Dunstan's, evoked by a feeling of gratitude and appreciation of the services that have been rendered by action in War and by example in Peace, by all the two thousand soldiers, sailors and airmen who were blinded in the Service of the Crown.

Wireless

THE Social Visitors on the occasion of their next visit will ask each man for information concerning the wireless sets they have in use, so that a complete record may be available at Headquarters.

The object of having a record is that St. Dunstan's may replace sets as they become obsolete with an effective loud-speaker set.

The Social Visitor will explain the circumstances under which these can be issued.

Allegation that Vote was Not Secret

THAT the local Council were told by a party agent which way a blinded soldier had voted, and that the Council got their knife into him and would not let him have a house, were allegations made in a recent libel case between a Member of Parliament and a candidate.

The case went up to the High Court, took up a day of argument, then both sides apologized and it was withdrawn.

The blinded soldier was W. C. Shaw, of Hucknall, a St. Dunstaner.

As both sides are happy now, the case does not matter very much in itself; but it is interesting that Counsel should be engaged on both sides, all sorts of wild statements should be made, a day's Court proceedings should ensue, with long articles in the local papers all about whether certain people gave away the secret of the blinded soldier's vote. This is rather striking testimony of the need of the Blind Voters' Act, which is now the law, and will avoid anything like this happening in future.

IAN FRASER.

Special Service at St. Paul's Cathedral

A SPECIAL SERVICE will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday, 22nd July, at 3.15 p.m. for St. Dunstaners and their friends. The Archdeacon of London, the Senior Chaplain of St. Dunstan's for so many years, and a Member of the Executive Council, will preach the sermon. Part of the Cathedral will be specially set apart for St. Dunstaners and their friends.

After-Care Reunion

EDINBURGH

THE Scottish Reunion was held on Tuesday, 26th June, at Windsor House, Edinburgh. Col. Eric Ball, Senior Member of St. Dunstan's Council and Chairman of the Brighton Home Committee, was in the Chair, and at once put his audience into a laughing mood by his anecdotes. He spoke on St. Dunstan's general policy regarding wireless, Children's Fund, etc., but, naturally, devoted a large part of his speech to what was the topic of the afternoon—Capt. Fraser's work and his Knighthood.

Sergeant Watt, who proposed the vote of thanks, said that Capt. Fraser's well-merited honour came as no surprise to St. Dunstaners. Capt. Fraser's work had embraced not only the interests of blind ex-Service men, but those of the whole blind community and of ex-Service men generally. He knew that the meeting would want to thank their Chairman (Sir Ian) for the very able manner in which he conducted their affairs, and wish for him and Lady Fraser long life in which to enjoy their honour. A. Isaac, in a short and appropriate speech, seconded the vote of thanks.

Prize-winners of the competition were:

(1) J. Owens, (2) J. Palmer. Ladies: (1) Miss McAvoy, (2) Miss McIntosh. Miss Warren, who received a warm welcome from many old friends, distributed the prizes. M. W.

News of Telephonists

WE wish every success in their new positions to J. L. Brooke, recently of Leeds, and now of Sheffield, A. Vernon, of East Ham, and A. J. Wiltshire, of Herne Hill.

A Competition for Braille Readers

IT has been suggested that it might encourage men to develop their Braille reading if a prize were offered in the REVIEW each month for a brief notice of from, say, 250 to 300 words on a book which any man had read recently. The book should have been obtained from the National Library so that it would be available for other men. Any kind of book could be reviewed whether historical, technical, or fiction, and what the competitors would do would be to say just why they enjoyed, or did not enjoy, reading it. This should stimulate the reading of Braille by those who already do so and might encourage others to take it up. As an experiment, a prize of ten shillings will be awarded this month for the best article on such lines. As there is no REVIEW next month, the competition can remain open until 31st August.

St. Dunstaner Helps Miss Dorothy Round

BEFORE playing in the tennis tournaments at Wimbledon this year, Miss Dorothy Round, who won the Women's Singles Championship, took a course of massage from a St. Dunstan's masseur, R. Middlemiss, of Handsworth Wood, Birmingham.

Annual Rally of Competitors

THE Annual Rally of competitors in the National Test was held at Milford on 7th June.

The greatest interest in St. Dunstan's Section was shown by visitors to the Test, and many congratulatory remarks were passed upon the appearance and type of the birds.

Mr. Leigh, Manager of the Test, told Mr. Walden that St. Dunstan's Section had in no way let the Test down; on the contrary, it had given the least amount of trouble. The Section had topped the averages during three periods out of the nine which had passed, and had never been lower than second. No other section had been top more than once.

The percentage of deaths in the whole Test up to the date of the Rally was 17 per cent, whereas St. Dunstan's Section had lost only 8 birds out of 144—an excellent comparison.

St. Dunstaner Honoured by the British Legion

AT the quarterly conference of the Kent Council British Legion held at the Town Hall, Margate, on 30th June, J. T. Sheehy, of Dover, was presented with a certificate of appreciation by the National Executive Council of the British Legion. The wording on the certificate was as follows:—

BRITISH LEGION

This Certificate is awarded by the President and National Executive Council to JOHN THOMAS SHEEHY, Esq., as a mark of sincere appreciation of valuable services rendered on behalf of ex-Service men and their dependents in the Dover Branch.

The Certificate was signed by Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice, National President; Colonel J. Brown, National Chairman; and Colonel C. Heath, General Secretary.

Young St. Dunstaners

CONGRATULATIONS to Lily and Paddy McLoughlin, the son and daughter of J. McLoughlin, of Dublin. Lily has passed her examination for piano-forte of the London College of Music and has been awarded the A.L.C.M., and Master Paddy has for three years in succession obtained honours in the Intermediate and University College, Dublin, examinations.

Other clever young St. Dunstaners whose successes we have to report this month are Edna Davies and Muriel Pannifer. Edna is the daughter of A. Davies, of Middlesbrough, and she has just been awarded two scholarships—the Bishop's Scholarship, and that of the North Riding County Council. Muriel is the eleven-year-old daughter of E. Pannifer, of Salford, and has gained an entrance scholarship for the Salford Secondary School.

Letters to the Editor

OLD BRAILLE MAGAZINES

DEAR SIR,

When I retired in London, I collected and distributed old Braille magazines amongst the deaf-blind poor. These old magazines are much wanted by the deaf-blind, and once they get into their hands, they are passed from one to another until they are practically unreadable.

I have had many letters asking me for these magazines since I left London, but am unable to get many down here. May I make an appeal to any of our boys who read Braille to stick a penny stamp on half a dozen when they have them and address them to Mr. J. Smith, 1 Diben Street, Essex Road, Islington, London, N.1? He is steward for London of the Deaf-Blind Helpers' League, and is himself deaf-blind.

The deaf-blind only who have not the pleasures of music, etc., know the real value of Braille.—Yours faithfully,

GEO. FALLOWFIELD.

Sompting, Sussex.

ST. DUNSTAN'S F.A.F. PARTY

SIR,

The Fresh Air Fund holidays are now in full swing all over the Kingdom, and I am very pleased to tell you that single donations and collections are coming to hand from St. Dunstaners, and various departments of the staff, to help pay for a St. Dunstan's party.

I have, therefore, arranged for this St. Dunstan's party of 400 poor children to go out for a day on Tuesday the 31st July. They will be drawn from the Hoxton district of London, and will be taken to Epping Forest, where they will enjoy themselves in the fresh open spaces and amongst the trees, join in games of all sorts, and be provided with two good meals at stated intervals.

I hope St. Dunstaners will think of their little guests on 31st July, and I would like to take this opportunity of again thanking all who have contributed.—Yours faithfully,

E. KESSELL.

London, W.C.2.

The Blind Gardener

THE following extracts may interest St. Dunstan's gardeners. They are from an article by Mr. Frank Eyre, himself a blind gardener, which appeared in My Garden for June:—

During a period of fourteen years of total blindness, I have proved, at least to my own satisfaction, that gardening is a happy, interesting, and profitable occupation for a blind man. Of course I admit my limitations. Nevertheless, it is true that I am able to keep my household supplied with all the culinary vegetables it requires all the year round, as well as flowers for cutting. I am able to perform all the processes from digging to the harvesting of my crops.

Gardening is a job of such magnitude that there is no need to attempt parts of the art that are obviously outside the blind man's scope. So I content myself with growing all those things that are cultivated in rows. Other people can set out my seedlings for effect.

Digging is the first and most important process in the garden. Deep digging is advised, almost ad nauseam, by those who write or broadcast about gardening. May I be forgiven for suspecting that to many who advocate it, such hard labour is either a counsel of perfection that they would follow were the flesh less frail, or a job that they depute to somebody else. I dig deep, my patience not being taxed by the sight of so little done and so much to do.

Having sown my seeds and set my potatoes, the next process to be undertaken is hoeing. For this important work I use a short-handled three-clawed "cultivator," and it is slow work. Of course I get help at hoeing time when I can, for a deft pair of hands plying a long-handled hoe can get over the ground at twice my pace. Thinning out the seedlings or transplanting is work that presents little difficulty when one has had experience.

I am told that my kitchen garden is as precise as those of my neighbours. Mathematical precision is a vice when applied to the flower garden, but a virtue in the cabbage patch. Weeds are a difficulty, but if I may believe what I am told my garden is as clean as most. I have to defer my thinning and weeding operations until the young plants are big enough to identify by means of a touch. Mr. Punch once advised the tyro who did not know how to tell the weeds from the other seedlings, to dig everything up, and those that come up again are the weeds. I have been known to leave a dandelion among the lettuces, but, generally speaking, I can easily tell the good stuff from what our sons of the soil call the "rubbidge."

Just as the only way to possess a book is to read it, so the only means of getting the truest pleasure from a garden is to work in it. To the blind gardener there is unending satisfaction in his handiwork; he automatically remembers the exact position of his crops and "watches" them as they grow. He has a job all the year round. He has the satisfaction of producing acceptable things under the open sky and in company with sweet breezes where he can indulge to the full the happy habit of quiet reflection.

Our joiner, T. W. Bloomfield, of Norris Green, Liverpool, has no fewer than six birds' nests under the ledges of his hut, and the birds show the utmost confidence in him. Other St. Dunstaners have also reported the companionship of wild birds, whose total lack of fear speaks volumes for the kindness shown to them by our men.

"In Memory"

PRIVATE ROBERT DODDS

(9th Durham Light Infantry)

It is with deep regret that we announce the death on 21st June of R. Dodds, of Whickham, Co. Durham.

Dodds came to St. Dunstan's in 1917 and was trained as a mat-maker. He did very well at his trade and worked regularly until a few months ago. Since February, however, he had been in ill-health. He became worse towards the end of May and passed away a few weeks later. Although he suffered great pain, Dodds was always bright and cheerful and was always ready to give a helping hand to anyone in need.

The funeral took place at Whickham Churchyard on 26th June and was attended by many relatives and friends, including his comrades in the British Legion. A number of beautiful wreaths were received, among them being one in the form of St. Dunstan's badge from Sir Ian Fraser and his fellow St. Dunstaners.

Births

ANDERSON.—On the 10th June, to the wife of W. Anderson, of Morecambe, a daughter, Maureen.

SMITH.—On the 25th June, to the wife of S. W. Smith, of Northwood, Middlesex, a son.

Deaths

We offer our very sincere sympathy this month to the following:—

ALDRIDGE.—To A. Aldridge, of Dagenham, whose eldest sister passed away on 13th June.

ASHWORTH.—To F. Ashworth, of Gorleston-on-Sea, who lost his mother on the morning of Tuesday, 3rd July.

BELL.—To R. Bell, of Dublin, who lost his wife on 13th June. Mrs. Bell had been ill for a long time.

BRUCE.—To the wife of W. Bruce, of Skipton, who has recently suffered the loss both of her mother and her brother-in-law.

BURNETT.—To W. J. Burnett, of Exeter, and his wife, whose son died on 10th June, following an operation.

DIXON.—To P. F. Dixon, of Batley, who has been doubly bereaved by the death of his mother and of his father within the last few weeks.

GLENDENNAN.—To H. G. Glendennan, of Twickenham (late of Ireland), who lost his father on 19th June.

KILSBY.—To the wife of G. Kilsby, of Cricklewood, whose father has recently passed away. He was 69 years of age and had served four years in the War.

PARRICK.—To G. Parrick, of Bromley, who lost his sister on the 5th June.

WILLIAMS.—To C. Williams, of Wrexham, whose mother died suddenly on 18th June.

Silver Wedding

Congratulations to J. E. Bell, of Redcliffe Gardens, London, S.W., and his wife, who celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding day on 3rd July.

A St. Dunstaner in Holy Orders

LIEUT. THE REV. C. M. ROGERSON, a St. Dunstaner, has just accepted the living of Pendleton, near Clitheroe. Mr. Rogerson, who was in the Army from 4th August, 1914, until he was blinded at the Battle of Polygon Wood in 1917, went up to Oxford after the War, and studied for Holy Orders, being appointed to the incumbency of St. Margaret's Church, Hapton, in August, 1929.

Other News

W. Watt, of Montrose, was present at the British Legion Conference which was held at Montrose in June. A photograph of General Sir Ian Hamilton shaking hands with Watt appeared in the Glasgow Bulletin of 18th June.

T. Gibbins, of Radway, Kineton, had bad luck a week or so ago, when four of his new pullets were taken by the fox.

J. Butler, of Waterford, had the distinction of winning no less than three prizes at the United Irish Women's Show at Fethard, Co. Tipperary—first prize for basket work, second prize for stool seating, and third prize for a tray.

W. G. Heritage, of Chacombe, has been hard at work re-sinking an old well. The water is coming in very useful.

As in past years, there will be no REVIEW published for August.

SPORTS CLUB NOTES

Annual Regatta at Putney

OUR Regatta was held at Putney, on Wednesday, 11th July, in ideal weather. Sir Ian Fraser, Lady Fraser and Lady (Arthur) Pearson were among those who watched the racing, which, as usual, provided some splendid finishes. A feature of the afternoon's sport was a race between two crews of St. Dunstaners and a crew of Old Etonians, stroked by Mr. G. O. Nickalls, the well-known Oxford Blue of 1921-22-23. After an exciting tussle, the Old Etonians went ahead to win by three-quarters of a length. In the Inter-Club Cup events, Birmingham and London tied with 8 points, with Manchester second, and Brighton third. Full results are given below:—

Regatta Dinner

THE Regatta Dinner took place at the Connaught Rooms and was a great success. Sir Ian Fraser presided, and there were also present Lady Fraser, Sir Neville Pearson, Colonel Ball, Mr. Kessell, the members of the Old Etonian four that beat our crews, and Miss Yorke and Miss Alexander from Bedford College. Speeches were made by the Chairman, Sir Neville Pearson, Colonel Ball, Mr. G. O. Nickalls and Colonel C. L. Carbutt, Chief Native Commissioner of Southern Rhodesia, who very kindly presented the prizes. Miss Yorke and Mr. W. Scott also said a few words. When the Old Etonian Four were presented with their prize, they very generously asked that it should be passed on to the St. Dunstan's crew which was placed second. All the speeches were commendably brief, and the proceedings were carried through with unusual smoothness and with even more enthusiasm than usual.

General Sports Day

LAST year weather conditions could not have been worse for our General Sports, but 23rd June this year fulfilled our highest hopes. In every way the meeting was a great success.

Special mention must be made of W. Birchall who won every open event in his class and also the treble jump in the Inter-Club events.

Between events, competitors and spectators were entertained by the Peel Silver Band.

Our young St. Dunstaners were present in full force and there was great excitement among them when everybody assembled on the lawn at Headquarters after tea for the presentation of the prizes by Lady Fraser.

Votes of thanks were passed to all who had helped, and with three hearty cheers for Sir Ian and Lady Fraser, General Sports Day, 1934, ended.

SPORTS DAY PRIZES

The Chairman desires, on behalf of the blinded men and their families who attended the General Sports Day on Saturday, 23rd June, to convey to all members of the Staff and other friends of St. Dunstan's who contributed towards the Prize Fund, sincere thanks and appreciation of their interest and generosity.
