St. Dunstan's and the Empire

Chairman's Letter

THE following letter written by the Chairman, who is now on his way home after his tour of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, appeared in The Times on 10th December:—

The Editor of The Times.

SIR,

A young Canadian from Toronto and a young New Zealander from Auckland returned to their homes after the Great War. The last thing the Canadian saw was a trench in France—the New Zealander, the desolation of Gallipoli. They were blinded, but they went back to their homes with a new vision and a new message. They had learned to conquer blindness at St. Dunstan's, where practically all of the Empire's sightless soldiers were trained and re-educated. And they meant to show Canadians and New Zealanders the way to victory over blindness.

I have had the opportunity of travelling across Canada and through New Zealand and have met practically all the blinded soldiers, and have examined and studied the education and employment that is being provided for the blind population as a whole.

Before the war, there were excellent local institutions for the blind in Canada and New Zealand—notably in Halifax, Montreal and Auckland. But the public conscience had not been stirred to its depth, and there was no national organization.

Captain Edwin Baker of Toronto, and Mr. Clutha Mackenzie of Auckland are, themselves, examples of the St. Dunstan spirit, which knows no difficulty too great to overcome; teaches forgetfulness of what is lost, and seeks opportunity for the use of what remains. These disciples made converts: philanthropists and business men gave them support, and now, in 1934, the results of their labours can be placed on record.

There has been a renaissance in the blind world of Canada and New Zealand. National organizations cover the whole of these dominions. Committees in every centre seek out the blind, register them, and see that they receive the best education, reading matter, social life, entertainment, and above all, employment—professional and manual.

The Governments, central and provincial, have enacted ameliorating legislation, following upon, and in some matters, improving upon the English "charter of the blind," "The Blind Persons Act 1920." Free wireless and special voting facilities have also been provided by the Parliaments.

No ambition on the part of a blind man or woman is denied encouragement and financial assistance. No trade, profession, or handicraft, which can be adapted to provide employment for the blind is neglected. Substantial sums of money are contributed by a public whose conscience has been awakened and interest secured.

The war has wrought many changes, but here and there, good has come out of evil. The development of nation-wide work for the welfare of the blind in Canada and New Zealand, is the direct result of the war and of the return of the two St. Dunstaners to their homelands. I might add that a similar movement started in South Africa a few years ago, when a National Council for the blind was set up, with another blinded soldier from St. Dunstan's, Mr. M. Bowen, M.L.A., as its Chairman.

I hope this note may reach The Times for publication on the thirteenth anniversary of the death of the late Sir Arthur Pearson, Bart., who founded St. Dunstan's and inspired this world-wide movement. I find the memory of his example and personality as vivid amongst St. Dunstaners overseas as amongst the blinded soldiers at Home.

I am, etc.,

IAN FRASER.

Auckland, New Zealand.

St. Dunstan's Gift to H.R.H. the Duke of Kent

From the Manchester Guardian, 23rd November:—

"In signifying his willingness to accept a wedding gift from the war-blinded soldiers, sailors and airmen at St. Dunstan's, the Duke of Kent suggested that the gift should take the form of some example of the work done by the men. As a result there have been sent to him, on behalf of the 2,000 war-blinded men cared for by St. Dunstan's, a reversible tea tray and a cable-wool rug."

Memorial Service to Sir Arthur Pearson

St. Dunstan's Flag Dedicated

THE Memorial Service to Sir Arthur Pearson was held this year at St. George's Church, Kemp Town, Brighton, on the anniversary of his death, Sunday, 9th December, and it was made especially memorable by the dedication at the end of it of the St. Dunstan's Standard presented to us by Lady (Arthur) Pearson, D.B.E., our President. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. A. Eyton-Jones, Vicar of St. George's Church, and our own Chaplain, the Venerable Archdeacon of London, Mr. E. N. Sharpe, gave the address and afterwards dedicated the Standard. Among others present were Lady (Arthur) Pearson, Sir Neville Pearson, Bart., Lt.-Col. Eric Ball, Mr. W. G. Askew, Miss Hamar Greenwood, and Miss A. Thellusson, Commandant Matron of St. Dunstan's at Brighton.

Sir Neville Pearson read the Lesson which was taken from Wisdom III, verses 1-9. In the course of his address, the Archdeacon of London said:—

We thanked God for the life of work of our founder, Sir Arthur Pearson. In the South African War, no special care was taken of those splendid soldiers who lost their sight. It was owing to him that the work of St. Dunstan's was founded at the very beginning of the Great War so that those who had lost their sight on active service might be properly cared for. Those who knew Sir Arthur would never forget his full life and service for others, and his great forcefulness and tremendous personality. He devoted his energies and, in fact, his whole life, to the service of others and especially to the service of those who have been unfortunate enough to lose the great gift of sight. His life was an example of courage and determination; of victory over overwhelming difficulties.

His widow was present that afternoon and had given St. Dunstan's a beautiful flag to be a St. Dunstan's Standard. It was that he was to dedicate. They prayed that it would inspire St. Dunstaners in all parts and at all times to remember the devotion of their founder, and they also prayed that in addition it would inspire all who saw it to remember Sir Arthur Pearson's work and to intensify their allegiance to King and Country. They prayed too that it would spread the spirit of brotherly love among all, and especially that it would spread among St. Dunstaners not only brotherly love and fellowship between themselves, but between all whom they encountered.

The Dedication Ceremony which followed was most impressive. The Standard was borne up the aisle by Corporal Major Tovell, who had as supporters two St. Dunstaners, B. Jarvill and J. March. As they approached the chancel the Archdeacon came forward and said:—

"Brethren, we are met together in the presence of God to take part in the hallowing and dedication of the Standard now presented to St. Dunstan's and to witness thereby to the noble ideals and great purposes inspired by Almighty God, which animate the members of St. Dunstan's and the fostering of brotherly love and comradeship among all its members, the remembrance of the ideals for which we fought in the Great War, and of our fellow-citizens who then laid down their lives for us; and also the preservation of true loyalty and devotion to our King and Country at all times, and in all places. To this end I call upon the men of St. Dunstan's and the whole congregation here present, to offer humble prayer to Almighty God, that He will receive at our hands this Standard now to be dedicated to his Glory and that he will inspire us all in all places to carry out with a single heart and devoted purpose the high aims for which we are joined in fellowship."

He then laid his hands on the Standard and dedicated it. After the dedication the flag was placed on the Holy Table.

The replicas which had been presented to the organizations responsible for the care of blinded ex-servicemen in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, were dedicated at about the same time in Canada in the Pearson Hall, Toronto; in South Africa in St. George's Cathedral at Cape Town, and in New Zealand in the Cathedral at Auckland. Another replica was hoisted at St. Dunstan's, Brighton, at the moment that the flag was dedicated in St. George's Church, and one will also fly at Headquarters.

On the morning of 9th December, a party consisting of Mr. Askew, Corporal Major Tovell, H. Crabtree, A. Cook, and Drummer Downs, went to Hampstead Cemetery where, after prayers had been read by Mr. Askew, a wreath in the form of our badge was placed on Sir Arthur's grave. Among the floral tributes was a beautiful wreath from St. Dunstan's telephonists.

Braille Book Competition

S. A. CHAMBERS, of King's Norton, Birmingham, is this month's winner with his review of A Man of Property, by John Galsworthy. His entry appears below.

Another competition is announced this month. Entries should be from 250 to 300 words in length and must be received not later than Monday, 7th January, 1935.

"A MAN OF PROPERTY" BY JOHN GALSWORTHY

Those of us who can remember pre-War London are carried back into its atmosphere by reading this first part of the Forsyte Saga. It was a time when things seemed solid and permanent, and when, like the characters in this story, we had little anticipation of the changes that were close upon us.

Galsworthy's is a crowded stage, and I found it a bit difficult at first to become accustomed to so many characters. The characters are, however, exceptionally well-drawn and life-like. One feels sorry for them somehow, wealthy and prosperous though they are. They have got so much, and yet they seem to have missed the really great things in life. They stand for a class, of course, which has passed, or is passing away.

It is remarkable how little seems to happen in this book, except for the culminating tragedy of the disaster to the married life of Soames and his wife Irene. The poor man seems to have done his best according to his lights, but the gulf between these two people was not to be bridged and one sees plainly their estrangement moving on to its inevitable climax.

This, together with the unhappy ending of June's romance, makes up a very impressive study which I feel cannot fail to leave one with a sense of sadness and futility. Indeed man cannot live by bread alone, nor even property.

Telephonists' Reunion

LT.-COL. ERIC BALL welcomed personally each of the telephonists and shorthand typists from the London Area who were present at the Dinner held at Headquarters on 23rd November. In the course of his speech he paid a warm tribute to the services of Mrs. Moore which had a rousing reception.

R. P. Coles made a happy little speech and proposed that a cablegram of greeting from the gathering should be sent to Sir Ian and Lady Fraser. This was ably seconded by H. V. Kerr and the meeting terminated with a brief entertainment.

Congratulations to H. Pratt, of Putney, telephonist, who has now started work at Norbiton Hospital.

An Offer to Pipe Smokers

WE have had brought to our notice a pipe which is particularly adapted to the needs of blinded smokers. The "Hurricane" pipe has a moulded cap which is unburnable and almost unbreakable, but it is attached to the pipe and is easily turned back out of the way for filling or cleaning. The pipe is priced at 10s. 6d. but its makers have generously offered to supply a limited number to St. Dunstaners at half cost, namely, 5s. 3d. Any St. Dunstaner who would like to take advantage of this offer should send at once to Messrs. Nutt Products, Ltd., 195 Oxford Street, London, W.1, enclosing remittance, and mentioning the fact that he is a St. Dunstan's man.

"In Memory"

Private JOHN HENRY COOPER
(North Staffordshire Regiment)

It is with deep regret that we announce the death of J. H. Cooper, of Hanley.

This St. Dunstaner did not come to us until the latter part of 1931, and was not able to undertake any serious training on account of ill-health. He had, however, been able to carry on with his wool-rug work and a few poultry. He had been going downhill for some time, and was eventually admitted to the North Stafford Hospital, where he died on the 20th November. He was 52 years of age.

The funeral took place four days later at Hanley Cemetery. A wreath was sent from Sir Ian Fraser and his comrades at St. Dunstan's, and members of the British Legion, including a bugler, attended. The coffin was draped with the Union Jack.

Cooper leaves a wife and seven children to mourn him, some of whom are very young, and we extend our sincere sympathy to them in their loss.

Private HERBERT JAMES STROUDLEY
(2nd Berkshire Regiment)

It is with great regret that we have to record the death of H. J. Stroudley of Oxford on the 1st November this year. Stroudley was wounded at Neuve Chapelle in 1915, as a result of which he became blind in one eye and had to have the other removed as well as suffering other disabilities.

He was admitted to St. Dunstan's in the same year, but owing to very poor health was unable to take up training of any kind. During the past year or two his health became worse and, after an illness lasting some months, he died.

The funeral took place a few days later, and was attended by Stroudley's mother and sister. Among the wreaths was one from Sir Ian Fraser and his fellow comrades of St. Dunstan's. We extend our very sincere sympathy to Stroudley's mother and family.

Private JOSEPH NOBLE PATTINSON
(East Yorkshire Regiment)

WE deeply regret to announce the death of J. N. Pattinson, of Lancing. This St. Dunstaner was mobilized in 1917 and served two years with the Forces of which eleven months were spent in France. As a result of his War Service he gradually lost his sight and also became paralyzed.

His case was brought to our notice in 1929 by the father of another St. Dunstaner, but owing to his very serious ill health he was never able to take up any form of occupation.

Several years ago he and his family moved from the North of England to the south coast, from which move his health greatly benefited and he eventually became able to walk a little with the assistance of a special hand rail.

His death occurred very suddenly and came as a great shock to his friends.

The funeral took place on the 14th November, the coffin being covered by a Union Jack. It was attended by his widow, son, daughter and many relatives and friends.

Among the wreaths were one from Sir Ian Fraser and his comrades at St. Dunstan's, one from Matron Thelluson and the staff at the Annexe, and one from the Lancing and Sompting Branch of the British Legion.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Pattinson's family in their loss.

We extend our sincere sympathy this month to the following:—

TWOMEY.—To the wife of J. Twomey, of Cork, whose mother died recently.

WHITE.—To C. White, of Colchester, whose father has just passed away.

Reunions

IN future no Reunions will be held in the winter months; we hope to be able to arrange them from the last week in March to the last week in October. It is also proposed that in future each Reunion shall be held in the same week each year.

EXETER

On 12th October the Exeter Reunion was again held at Holy Trinity Hall, kindly loaned for the occasion, and St. Dunstaners were very pleased to welcome as visitors several old friends. Miss Hamar Greenwood expressed her pleasure at being able to be present, and conveyed greetings from the Council; and after Mr. Ottaway had spoken of the loss St. Dunstan's had sustained in the passing over of the late Miss Ayre, and of the inspiration her life would be to all, this was endorsed by F. W. Thompson, of Tavistock, and all stood for a moment in silent remembrance. This tribute was also paid to the memory of Mr. Hegarty, on the proposal of J. W. Hodkin, of Shaldon. Miss Oliphant was introduced as the new Social Visitor, and then the time was all too short for greeting old friends and new, and taking part in various competitions.

J. O.

NOTTINGHAM

The meeting in Nottingham on 17th October, was again given by Councillor and Mrs. Seely Whitby, and right royally they entertained us.

It was in a very real sense a reunion—as in former years Mr. Ottaway, Miss Gough, Miss Nelson, the Technical Instructors and myself were there. Mrs. Dunphy, Mr. Doughty and Mr. Taylor paid their first visits to a Nottingham meeting. Surprise visitors were: "Mr. H.," Miss Davies, and Miss Bamberger, and a very delightful surprise, too! "Mr. H." had been expected for the last six years!!

Councillor Seely Whitby took the Chair and spoke at tea. Mr. Ottaway replied, thanking Mr. Seely Whitby and telling the men news of St. Dunstan's. A vote of thanks to Councillor and Mrs. Seely Whitby was proposed by A. Singleton and seconded by A. W. Robinson.

Mrs. Whitby presented the prizes to the winners of various competitions, and a charming concert concluded the evening.

BRISTOL

If noise is any criterion of enjoyment, then the Bristol Reunion on the 16th November, was a very happy one.

Miss Hamar Greenwood was happily able to be present, and brought greetings from the Council, and also made sympathetic reference to the late Miss Ayre.

After making mention of various matters Mr. Ottaway welcomed Mrs. Robertson-Glasgow, who had come down from Reading to the Reunion, and who responded to the applause accorded to her.

A. J. Radford proposed a vote of thanks to the Council, and to all those who had made this Reunion possible. This was seconded by A. Sterno.

Mrs. Howes then presented me with a lovely big bunch of chrysanthemums as a token of welcome.

After this there were games and competitions, for which prizes were distributed by Mrs. Robertson-Glasgow and Mrs. Fitzgerald.

D. J. O.

GLOUCESTER

The Reunion at Gloucester took place on 31st October, when a happy party spent the afternoon at the Cadena Café. Unfortunately, several of those invited were unable to be present. After tea Miss Hamar Greenwood conveyed greetings from the Council, and also a message from Sir Ian and Lady Fraser. She also made sympathetic reference to the late Miss Ayre, and was supported in this by A. W. Bundy, upon whose suggestion everyone stood for a moment's silent tribute to their late Visitor.

Mr. Ottaway then introduced Miss Oliphant, and referred to various matters, after which G. M. Jordan proposed a vote of thanks to the Council of St. Dunstan's for such an enjoyable afternoon. An instrumental trio played during the afternoon, and prizes were given for the various competitions in which everyone took part.

Silver Wedding

Congratulations to E. Lupton, of Weeton, near Kirkham, and his wife, who celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on the 15th November.

January in the Flower Garden

IF not frosty, roll all lawns. This should be done every three to four weeks in winter. It is wise to keep them swept clean from leaves and worm cast.

Try and keep your garden generally tidy in winter as well as summer, as I think a well kept garden has its charm even in the winter season. If you have any rustic work or woodwork of any kind, keep this firm and in good repair. If needed, give ordinary woodwork a coat of creosote (obtainable at your ironmongers), not forgetting to scrape back a bit of the earth round the part which is in the ground as this prevents rotting if well coated with creosote, but take care not to let the creosote come in contact with any roots of plants, roses, bushes, etc.

Other News

In the recent North London Musical Festival, C. E. Thomas, of Cricklewood, was placed first in one class for tenors, with a total of 89 out of 100 possible marks, gaining a silver challenge cup, and, in another class, was second, with 88 marks out of 100. The adjudicator was Mr. Marcus Thomson, who stated that Thomas had a beautiful voice, and gave an interesting and effective performance.

An eloquent plea for the League of Nations was made by T. ap Rhys, of Bangor, at a public peace meeting at Llangefni, Anglesey, last month. This St. Dunstaner lectures frequently for the League of Nations Union, and is a prominent member of the Bangor City Literary and Debating Society.

We regret to learn that the wife of W. J. Bowers, of Hounslow, was injured recently in a collision with a cyclist. Mrs. Bowers, who is 68 years of age, received cuts on the head and hands, and other minor injuries.

We also regret to learn that D. G. Williams's son, Dennis, has recently met with a bicycle accident, and is at present in Cardiff Infirmary suffering from concussion and a greenstick fracture.

Five-Mile Sealed Handicap and Three-Mile Novices' Walk

SATURDAY, 17TH NOVEMBER, 1934.

Colonel Eric Ball said a few words of welcome to the competitors in the Lounge and then started six competitors in the Novices' Race. They went off in fine style, H. Stayt taking the lead. Later, E. Varley drew ahead. As the competitors passed Clarence Gate, on the return journey, the result seemed fairly certain, the order being Varley, Stayt, and Morris. Several of the judges said Varley was much to be congratulated on his style. Here are six good recruits to walking, and it is to be hoped they will keep it up.

Condolences to J. Jerome, who failed to get to the start owing to trouble with his car.

Ten minutes later Colonel Ball started the A and B Sections of the five-mile handicap walk.

Archie Brown walked beautifully, and soon opened up a long gap, and finished the race in 39 mins. 8 secs.—a very fine performance.

H. Boorman, walking remarkably well, did the fastest time for B Section—45 mins.

The winner of the handicap embracing both Sections was the veteran walker, J. R. Brown, who won Mr. A. Gordon Brown's special prize, a lovely canteen of cutlery.

List of St. Dunstaners' Telephone Numbers

A SUGGESTION was made at the Annual Sports Meeting that a list should be made of St. Dunstaners' telephone numbers.

Would any St. Dunstaner like to send his number in to the REVIEW for publication in such a list?

Young St. Dunstaners

Vera, the daughter of A. King, of Bradford, has won a scholarship for St. Joseph's College, Bradford, at the lowest age at which she could possibly enter.

The son of J. G. Straughton, of Workington, has secured a first-class pass at a recent Musical Festival. This was his first public appearance.

The son of J. E. Davies, of Llandyssul, has won the first prize of a silver cup in a singing contest in which competition was very keen.
