CHAIRMAN'S NOTES

Good Friends of St. Dunstan's

IN the month of February St. Dunstan's lost by death two good friends. Though they worked in different and distant spheres, they had in common an affection for St. Dunstan's and a record of devoted service.

General the Hon. J. J. Byron, D.S.O., C.M.G., M.P., Chairman of St. Dunstan's Committee in South Africa, was one, and Miss Hilda K. Warren, Head of the Netting Department was the other.

General Byron had a long record of public service to his credit. He had been a fine soldier in the South African War and in the Great War; he had been a Member of the House of Assembly and of the Senate in South Africa for many years; he occupied a prominent position in the public life of the Union of South Africa, where he lived since he was a young man. When Mrs. Bates went to South Africa in 1930 to set up a new Committee to take over the work which had hitherto been so admirably carried out by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Vincent, General Byron accepted the invitation of our Council to become Chairman of the South African Committee. He brought to our work in South Africa a soldierly outlook, sympathy, understanding, distinction and wise guidance. St. Dunstaners throughout the Empire will wish me particularly to express to our comrades in South Africa our sympathy with them in the loss they have sustained by the death of their Chairman, and all of us will express our deep sympathy with Mrs. Byron and his family.

With Miss Warren's untimely death—she was only in middle age—a link with the earlier days at St. Dunstan's is broken. She was one of the early V.A.D.s who did duty in the Hall at the original House of St. Dunstan's. Many St. Dunstaners in all parts of the world will remember her there and in her subsequent posts, the last of which was that of Head of the Netting and Wool Rug Department. She understood and liked the men of St. Dunstan's, and they understood and liked her. I have heard her affectionately described as "the tall Australian Sister," and also as "the Sister with the infectious laugh." She will be greatly missed by all the staff who worked with her, and particularly by the netting men all over the country, who heard from her so frequently and in whose work and personal affairs she took such a deep interest. Miss Warren came over from Australia to do War work. We express our deep sympathy with her relations in Australia—some of whom I had the pleasure of meeting during my recent trip—and with Mr. M. Woodley, her nephew, in England.

The Talking Book

Since I last wrote a note about the Talking Book in the REVIEW, much progress has been made. I can now say with confidence that a Library of Records will be started soon, so that mechanical reading aloud in the blind man's home will be possible.

We have tested out three methods of recording and reproducing "reading aloud." Two involve the use of a gramophone disc, and the third the use of a film. We are reaching the point now when the Committee which has been set up by St. Dunstan's and the National Institute for the Blind will decide which system is the best. We are taking the opinion of a number of blind people and of experts in the blind world, and of course we shall have to give full consideration to the questions of cost, ease of use, durability and so on.

The general idea of the scheme is that a blind person would purchase a reading machine, which might cost from £4 to £10, and we would supply the records of complete books at a nominal price, or perhaps free, as in the case of Braille.

We hope to begin establishing the Library in the autumn with one new book each month at first, and two new books each month as soon as possible thereafter.

A twelve-inch gramophone disc will read aloud for half an hour on one side, so that a whole book would take from eight to ten double-sided records. The film might read for a longer time, but the machine for reproducing the speech might be more expensive. We have to weigh all these points, and we are going into it very thoroughly.

These experiments and inquiries have been carried out largely under my personal direction. I have therefore listened to the experimental talking book records, and can assure my readers that it is the greatest possible pleasure to sit down quietly and have a book read aloud to you in a pleasant clear voice, at your own convenience.

The cost of the books will be very considerable; perhaps about the same as Braille. But both St. Dunstan's and the National Institute for the Blind consider the benefit that they would be conferring upon the blind by making these books available is so great that it would thoroughly justify the expenditure.

A week or two ago a Post Office Amendment Bill came up in the House of Commons and on behalf of the Joint Committee I took the opportunity of making a speech in which I explained the Talking Book to the House, and asked Sir Kingsley Wood, the Postmaster-General, to take power to transmit these Talking Books through the mails at the same special reduced postal rates applicable to Braille volumes. I am glad to say that the Postmaster-General accepted my suggestion and that an amendment has been made to the Bill accordingly. I am sure that on behalf of the blind community generally, and of St. Dunstaners in particular, I may express our thanks to Sir Kingsley Wood and the Post Office for this valuable concession.

It may interest St. Dunstaners to know how in my experience Ministers of the Crown, who must be involved in all kinds of weighty and difficult matters and upon whom the utmost possible pressure of public business and responsibility rests, sometimes take pleasure in interesting themselves personally in what are after all relatively small matters. Sir Kingsley Wood, for example, was very interested in this proposal, and in conversation asked me a number of questions about the Talking Book—how it would work—what blind people thought of the idea, and so on.

On a previous occasion a similar thing happened in regard to another measure I was advocating, namely the amendment to the law which enables a blind person to vote with the aid of his wife or friend. The Home Secretary then was Sir Herbert Samuel and his Under-Secretary was Mr. Oliver Stanley, now Minister of Labour. Both of them showed personal interest in the matter under discussion. Sir Herbert Samuel actually himself cut out a piece of cardboard with slots in it where a blind person might put his cross by feeling. In fact, the difficulty of many different kinds of ballot papers which would have involved as many special "guides" or "frames" made this method impracticable, and so my original suggestion was adopted. But the incident illustrates my point.

IAN FRASER.

Reunion Meetings

ST. Dunstaners will all desire to honour the occasion of His Majesty's Jubilee, and will probably agree that no more fitting opportunity could be provided than a Reunion with their fellow St. Dunstaners.

It has therefore been decided to hold a number of large Reunions—probably eight in all—at convenient centres in place of the smaller Reunions which are normally held.

St. Dunstan's hopes to publish preliminary details in the next issue of the REVIEW, but all St. Dunstaners will receive a personal invitation.

Brighton Service Broadcast

SUNDAY, MARCH 24th, 8 p.m.

WE now learn from the B.B.C. that the Sunday evening service in St. Dunstan's Chapel at the Brighton Home will be broadcast from 8 to 8.40 p.m. on March 24th from the LONDON REGIONAL programme only. As announced in last month's REVIEW, the Rt. Hon. the Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of London is travelling to Brighton especially to take part of the service and to preach the sermon.

We hope that as many St. Dunstaners as possible will listen-in to this service from their own chapel.

St. Dunstaners in the News

FROM the Manchester Daily Express, February 14th:—

A blind man made history to-night when he acted as timekeeper at a boxing tournament in the Earl of Crewe Gymnasium, Crewe.

He was Mr. R. Giffin, a chartered masseur, of Brooklyn Street, Crewe. He is completely blind, but he does not let that worry him. He tells the time by passing his fingers over his watch face, which has no glass over it. He lost the sight of both eyes in the War.

His services as a masseur are in frequent demand by Cheshire football clubs, including Crewe Alexandra. Mr. Giffin is a keen sportsman, taking a lively interest in football, boxing, and billiards. He told me he had "seen" the Everton v. Sunderland Cup-tie, and his description of the game could hardly have been more accurate if he had actually seen it.

His enjoyment of a billiards match is just as keen. His acute hearing soon distinguishes a good stroke from a bad one and the comments of the spectators supply the rest of his information.

FROM the Western Mail, February 9th:—

The only blind member of the Barry branch of the British Legion, Mr. J. Palfrey, Vere Street, Cadoxton, Barry, was the guest of honour at the annual dinner and dance of the branch on Friday.

The Chairman (Mr. H. H. Howell) said that Mr. Palfrey had since the inception of the branch always claimed the privilege of laying the Legion wreath on the cenotaph on Armistice Day. Mr. Howell deprecated the tendency to neglect the consideration of ex-Service men's claims on the public. He urged that such infidelity should not be borne in silence, and said that the claims of people who were described as saviours during the War should not be forgotten.

Among the invited guests was a former officer of the German Army, but he was unable to attend owing to the illness of his wife.

IN a long article in its issue of February 28th, the Doncaster Chronicle told readers of the War and post-War record of a St. Dunstaner, H. Lee, of Moorends. After describing how Lee received the wounds that caused his blindness, it said:—

In 1924, he went into St. Dunstan's Home at Brighton, almost blind. His spirit was by no means crushed, and after 14 months' training in basket making and light cane work, he came home to Moorends to set up in business in his own back-garden. Here, in a well-ordered workshop, equipped with large stocks of cane and string, he whiles away many a long hour, surrounded by beautiful examples of his craft.

... With his typewriter and his baskets to keep him busy, and a loyal family of two sons and two daughters, to keep him company, Mr. Lee is a surprisingly happy man. There is another great reason—he has a devoted and loving wife, who has stood beside him in his own trouble, and has that wonderful quality of patience which, combined with his own cheerfulness in the face of a terrible disability, has made life worth living.

A message of good wishes to Chronicle readers typed by Lee appeared at the end of the article.

From the Poultry World, March 8th, 1935:—

The effectiveness of the St. Dunstan's poultry training is demonstrated by the success of Mr. P. Holmes at the Beds County Laying Test. His winning pen of White Wyandottes won the "Wallace" Challenge Cup, a silver medal, and three special merit certificates.

Sir Harry Lauder Visits a St. Dunstaner

WHEN Sir Harry Lauder is in Belfast he never fails to call and see our St. Dunstaner, T. Wright. He did so again a fortnight ago and found Wright in his usual wonderful spirits.

Anagrammatics

THIS new competition seems to have made a strong appeal to readers of the REVIEW, and there were no less than seventy entries. Only one of these was absolutely correct, and this was from T. W. WALTON, of South Ealing, who receives the prize of ten shillings. The correct result was:

MALT
OPHTHALMIC
SHADING
DAGGER
GAINER
LEPER.

Incidentally, two or three competitors sent in alternative solutions. It should be made quite clear that alternatives are not permitted, and that only one solution to each "Anagrammatic" can be submitted. This month's competition is as follows:

TERISD
RANID
CADITYMEN
LECRIC
INKST
APLE

Envelopes must be clearly marked "Competition" and should reach the Editor not later than Tuesday, April 2nd. No correspondence of any kind will be entertained.

Derby Sweepstake

APPLICATION for tickets in the 1935 Derby Sweepstake may be made now. Full particulars were published in last month's REVIEW, but we would point out again that the competition is confined solely to St. Dunstaners. Tickets are 2s. 6d. each and each application must be accompanied by a remittance to the value of the number required. Envelopes must be plainly marked "Derby Competition."

The Chairman Visits Brighton and King's Langley

DURING the month Captain Sir Ian Fraser visited the Convalescent Home at Brighton and spent some time discussing the administration of the Home with the Commandant Matron. After lunch Sir Ian addressed the men in the Lounge and answered a number of questions on various topics. He said that a larger number of blinded soldiers than ever has enjoyed a period of convalescence or holiday there during this year, and that all realized what wonderful work Miss Thellusson did and thanked her and the staff. (Applause.)

Sir Ian also met representatives of the B.B.C. and discussed with them and with Miss Boyd Rochfort, the proposed broadcast from the Chapel, about which particulars are given elsewhere in this issue.

The Chairman also paid a visit of inspection to St. Dunstan's Poultry Farm, King's Langley, and discussed with Mr. Thomson Brown the various schemes which are conducted to assist poultry farmers all over the country. He examined with great interest the incubators and brooders, which are capable of hatching 16,000 eggs each. These are amongst the largest in the country.

Silver Weddings

CONGRATULATIONS to F. Mowtell, of Cramlington, and his wife, who celebrated their silver wedding on March 5th, to J. Wood, of Grange-over-Sands, and his wife, whose silver wedding was on March 10th, and to W. Williamson, of Denton, Manchester, and his wife, whose anniversary will fall on March 26th.

It has also been brought to our notice that mention has never been made that J. Kerr, of Widnes, and his wife, celebrated their silver wedding in November, 1932. We offer them now our best wishes.

"Sons of Victory"

CONGRATULATIONS to Sergeant Alan Nichols, a contribution from whom is to be published in Pearson's Weekly on March 30th under the title of "Sons of Victory." It is in story form but is largely autobiographical and should be of interest to all St. Dunstaners. Later on Sergeant Nichols hopes to complete a book on the same subject.

"In Memory"

Sergeant AUSTIN BRIDGES
(Labour Corps)

It is with deep regret that we announce the death of A. Bridges, of Caerphilly.

This St. Dunstaner came to us in 1933, his sight having failed gradually as a result of hardships and exposure suffered during his War service.

Owing to ill-health, it was impossible for him to train in any of the ordinary occupations, but he spent part of his time doing light work, such as netting and wool rug making. In February of this year he was taken suddenly ill, and admitted to Cardiff Infirmary, where he died on February 8th, as the result of an operation.

The funeral took place a few days later and was largely attended by relatives, and friends, including members of the local branch of the British Legion. Among the wreaths was one from Sir Ian Fraser and his comrades at St. Dunstan's.

Bridges leaves a widow and three daughters, to whom we extend our sympathy in their bereavement.

Able-Bodied Seaman SAMUEL DURRANT
(Royal Navy)

We deeply regret to record the death of S. Durrant, of Wimborne.

Durrant served during the War in the Royal Navy, when he met with an accident which subsequently caused him to lose his sight.

He came to St. Dunstan's in 1917 and was taught poultry farming, which occupation he continued to his death.

For some time past Durrant had been in a rather precarious state of health, but his death, which occurred very suddenly on February 12th, was unexpected by the majority of his friends.

The funeral took place on February 16th, and was attended by his relatives and many friends, including two St. Dunstaners and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. McAndrews of Bournemouth. A wreath from Captain Sir Ian Fraser and his comrades at St. Dunstan's was one of the many floral tributes.

Durrant leaves a widow and six children, to whom we extend our very sincere sympathy in their great loss.

Private JAMES MOSS
(4th Lancashire Fusiliers)

It is with deep regret that we announce the death of J. Moss, of Bolton.

This St. Dunstaner did not come to us until some years after the War, as he was able to carry on after one eye had been removed. In 1927, however, he took a short course in poultry-farming and also learned mat-making, but he was never very strong and was not able to keep on with his work for long. He had been ill for many months and suffered very much. He passed away on February 3rd.

The funeral was attended by members of the Little Lever British Legion, who also acted as bearers. A wreath from Captain Sir Ian Fraser and his comrades at St. Dunstan's, and another from the British Legion, were among the many flowers. A memorial service was held in the Wesleyan Chapel on Sunday morning, February 10th, at which members of the British Legion were again present.

Moss leaves a widow and four children, to whom we extend our sincere sympathy in their loss.

Births

FALLOWFIELD.—To the wife of G. Fallowfield, of Worthing, on February 16th, a son.

WILKIE.—To the wife of J. Wilkie, of Burton-on-Trent, on February 11th, a son and daughter—Kenneth and Dorothy.

WRIGHT.—To the wife of R. F. Wright, of Winchmore Hill, on December 27th, a son.

Deaths

We offer our sincere sympathy this month to the following:—

ABRAM.—To the wife of H. Abram, of Stockport, who lost her father at the age of 63 on February 27th.

BRAZIER.—To S. Brazier, of Castleford, whose wife recently passed away very suddenly.

BUNDY.—To A. W. Bundy, of Gloucester, whose father passed away on March 2nd at the age of 65 after a very serious operation.

DAVIDSON.—To J. A. Davidson, of Southwick, who lost his mother on January 20th.

HINTON.—To A. Hinton, of Malvern, whose father has recently died.

MURPHY.—To the wife of W. Murphy, of Liverpool, whose father passed away on February 24th at the age of 73 years after long suffering.

SPARKES.—To P. J. Sparkes, of Grimsby, who lost his father on February 15th.

TIMBRELL.—To W. H. Timbrell, of Southall, whose mother passed away on February 5th.

April in the Flower Garden

ROSES. I generally wait until the first week in April before I prune my roses, to make sure that those fairly late frosts have finished. However, perhaps you would rather prune yours towards the end of March; it is a matter of opinion.

I advise you to keep all dead blooms picked off your wallflowers, etc., so that they won't go to seed. This prolongs the flower unless, of course, you want to save some seed of a particular plant.

Keep all soil raked in your flower beds, and put in those seeds you want for summer blooms.

C. F. VIGAR.

Young St. Dunstaners

JOYCE, the seven-year-old daughter of J. Walch, of Blackpool, has passed the Primary Examination in the Theory of Music, gaining 97 marks out of a possible 100.

The son of F. Scott, of Langley, Bucks, has in all won fourteen certificates for swimming, including the Royal Life-saving Certificate. He has been House-Captain and now, by the votes of his schoolfellows, has been made Vice-Captain of the school.

Audrey Ferrand, the little daughter of H. Ferrand, of Bradford, has won a scholarship to the Grange High School at the age of eleven. She has also won certificates for swimming and dancing. Her sister Joan hopes to matriculate this year.

The son of W. H. Timbrell, of Southall, has been awarded a scholarship to a Technical School.

We regret to learn that E. C. Gattrell's little girl, Joan, was knocked down by a lorry on her way to school a few weeks ago. Luckily she was not badly hurt and has now almost recovered.

Two of the daughters of A. Palfrey, of Cadoxton, have won scholarships and are now getting along well at their respective schools. We wish their other sister every success when she sits for her scholarship very soon.

Two Marriages

Our best wishes to John, son of J. D. Lee, of Sacriston, who was married on February 9th to Miss Hannah Mary Smith in that town, and to Edna, the daughter of S. Jennings, of Redcar, who was married at Darlington on February 23rd, to Mr. William Pybus.

And a Golden Wedding

G. E. Fox, of Horndean, tells us that his father and mother will celebrate their golden wedding on March 29th. Our congratulations to them.

St. Dunstan's Clock to Return to its Old Home

ST. DUNSTANERS who remember the Clock at "St. Dunstan's" on the Outer Circle will learn with interest that after one hundred years, it is to be returned to its original position outside the Church of St. Dunstan-in-the-West in Fleet Street.

The clock—the first ever made to show the minutes—was built by Thomas Harrys in 1671, and juttied out from the church. It was bought for about two hundred guineas by the third Marquess of Hertford, who placed it in his house on the Outer Circle, the house being renamed "St. Dunstan's." This was recently purchased by Viscount Rothermere who has announced his intention of returning the Clock to its old position, together with three historic figures which also previously belonged to the Church.

The Clock is still in almost perfect condition, but the stonework of the figures representing King Lud and his two sons will need attention before they are replaced.

Dickens, Scott, Trollope, and many other writers mentioned this famous clock.

News from Overseas

WE have just received a press cutting from the Perth Sunday Times, showing a photograph of W. James, of Perth, his wife and two boys. The newspaper adds that James is president of the North Perth Sub-Branch of the Returned Soldiers' League, while Mrs. James is president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

A correspondent writes: "It would be hard to find a more courageous and cheerful spirit than Mr. James, who is a Vice-President of the Braille Society of Western Australia. . . . Mrs. James has also proved herself a capable leader. She is secretary of the Blinded Soldiers' Association in West Australia and has acted in this capacity for the last nine years."

We extend our very sincere sympathy to A. C. Payne, of Sydney, New South Wales, who has recently suffered a double bereavement. His only sister buried her husband on Boxing Day and in January Payne's eldest son died at the age of 26.

SPORTS CLUB NOTES

London

Tuesday, March 26th.—Concert given by friends of Miss Zucker.

Tuesday, April 2nd.—Dance.

Tuesday, April 30th.—7 p.m. Meeting to discuss summer sports programme. Whist Drive after meeting.

Sir Ian Fraser's Lecture

ON Tuesday, February 19th, Sir Ian Fraser lectured on his Empire tour.

He made the whole tour live for us, and worked in many aspects of his journey—description of the ship, the various countries, their politics and people, and news of old friends from St. Dunstan's who had come to meet him at every place he visited.

The amount of detail made so amusing, and crowded into one short lecture, was a wonderful feat. A large attendance at the meeting, including several St. Dunstaners who have hardly ever been seen on a Tuesday evening, showed how popular the lecture was.

Birmingham

TEN-MILE WALK, APRIL 6th

Start 2.30 p.m. from Farcroft Hotel, Handsworth. Inter-Club Team Race. Prizes in scratch and sealed handicap.

Brighton

TEN-MILE HANDICAP WALK

THE annual ten-mile Handicap Walk at Brighton took place on February 9th. The weather was fine and sunny but there was a very cold wind.

The course was a little more than ten miles. The race was started by Sir Cooper Rawson, M.P. for Brighton, in the presence of a large crowd of spectators. Space does not permit a very detailed account of the actual race, but there were several well-known ex-walkers present and they commented on the excellent style of the men as also did other competent judges who watched them. There was special commendation of the pluck of the competitors, for in spite of the keen east wind, every starter completed the course.

In Section B, H. Boorman was first in 1 hr. 42 min. 37 sec., with H. Kerr second (1.50.27), and W. Birchall third (1.51.18). In Section A, A. Brown won in 1.31.33 from P. Ashton (1.40.36) and H. Gover (1.41.34).

The handicap was framed by Mr. J. Tree, S.C.A.A.A. The referee was Mr. E. M. Chrishop, S.C.A.A.A., who was assisted in judging and time-keeping by Messrs. Donoghue and Warwick (London). The escorts were mainly members of the local walking clubs and jolly good chaps they all are.

After the race, competitors, officials and friends were entertained to tea by Miss Adeline Thellusson, Commandant Matron. A vote of thanks to those people who had given such invaluable help was proposed by Instructor W. A. Tovell and seconded by Archie Brown, and after this, Miss Thellusson presented the prizes. Speeches from Miss Thellusson, Mr. Tree, and Mr. Chrishop ended an enjoyable event.

We should like to take this opportunity of thanking the Brighton Police who made such excellent arrangements for the safety of those who took part in the race.

***

The St. Helens and District Reporter published a long description of Birchall's success in the Walk. His family is very well known in St. Helens and Birchall himself lived there until he came to London a few years ago.

To Australian St. Dunstaners

W. Brookes, of Southampton, who is a very keen bird-fancier, is anxious to obtain a breeding pair of Australian Diamond Finches, a very beautifully marked bird, but unique, Brookes believes, in England. If any St. Dunstaner living in Australia could think of any way of co-operating with Brookes in obtaining such a pair of birds, he would be very grateful. The Editor will be very glad to pass on suggestions of help to Brookes.

By Mistake

IN an amusing letter a St. Dunstaner wants to know if any other readers have ever made mistakes similar to the following. He says: "I recently washed up the crockery only to find what I thought was the soda still at the bottom of the bowl. My young daughter was very amused to find I had taken the wrong bag and had sprinkled chicken grit in the water. Once, another St. Dunstaner and I were left at home while the women went out for the day. I did the cooking but could find no salt, although I knew there was some in the house. My friend went searching and triumphantly returned with a lump which he scraped on his dinner, then chipped a bit off and handed to me asking what it was. It was a lump of Blanco for cleaning white shoes!"
